Brown Craft paper or grocery bags
scissors
Markers, crayons, oil pastels, etc
Printed examples of Pictographs

Instructions:

Volunteers should precut the brown paper using the enclosed template or a shape of their choice to resemble an animal hide. Have the students think of a story that might have happened in a native American settlement. Have students them draw using pictographs. (Pass around the printed examples of pictographs) When they are done, students can crinkle their “hides” to soften and give a realistic look to.
